The FIXON Warehouse Divergency Protocol serves to document differences between the registered state, reported or resulting from transfer documents and the condition actually identified with the Partner.

The protocol may be drawn up after inventory, periodic inspection, emergency notification, monthly report, return of goods, termination of cooperation or in any other case where the absence, excess, damage, value incompatibility, non-compliance with the status of the product or any other difference requiring clarification has been disclosed.

The protocol does not itself determine the Partner's guilt, but is an explanatory and billing document. The final decision on how to settle discrepancies follows the verification of data, documents, photographs, reports and explanations of the Partner.
